HISTORY.

Unlike most British Commonwealth countries, Australia decided at the end of the 1939-45 war, to disband all her women's forces except the nursing services, but less than three years after the last of the WAAAF were demobilized in 1947, an announcement was made to Parliament by the Governor-General in February 1950, intimating the Government's intention to re-introduce a Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

In July 1950, Cabinet approved the re-establishment of a women's air force in principle and in August came recognition that women were essential components of the armed forces, in peace and war. No longer an Auxiliary, the proposed new Service was regarded as a Branch of the PAF, which was known as the WAAF until November 1950, when the Minister for Air announced that a further honour had been paid to Australian servicewomen by His Majesty, King George VI, who had approved the adoption of the title 'Women's Royal Australian Air Force'.

By the middle of December 1950, four officers were appointed as Flight Officers in the new Service. All had had previous service with the WAAAF. During December these four Flight Officers completed Refresher Courses at Laverton where they were joined by two Section Officers.

The size of the WRAAF (pronounced WAF) was limited to an establishment of 30 officers and 832 airwomen who were to form a well-trained nucleus which could be quickly and efficiently expanded in an emergency. From the very beginning, members were to engage in productive duties to ease acute shortages of staff in certain trades (eg, clerical and signals musteringings) and release members of the RAAF for other work.

In 1965 the WRAAF ceiling establishment was raised to 1050.

In 1951, it was decided to grant officers short service commissions only, which might be extended for a period not exceeding three years, while airwomen were to be enlisted for four years with an opportunity to re-engage for further similar periods. In 1956, airwomen were permitted to re-engage for a shorter period of 2 years, if desired.

After December 1959, WRAAF were included in the Defence Forces Retirements Benefits Scheme and members had to be enlisted or appointed for a period of six years. Serving members of the WRAAF were given the option of electing to terminate their old engagements and commence new engagements of six years. In 1970 WRAAF officers were offered four or six year appointments to commission for the first time since 1959.

In 1972 Air Force Regulation 92 was amended to permit airwomen to elect a 3 or 6 year initial engagement.

The first permanent commissions were granted with effect 1 May 1965.

Recruit Training.

It had been an early intention to let the Service grow slowly and limit initial recruiting mainly to ex-Servicewomen already trained in skilled musteringings. Enlistments were delayed while Treasury sorted out problems involving relations between the three women's services, but there was no lack of interest. Scores of enquiries had been received by July 1950 and by October, more that 2000 women had applied to join the WRAAF.

The first group of applicants were x-rayed and aptitude tested at Laverton on 12 December 1950. On 30 January 1951 (the date accepted as the WRAAF Birthday) 16 trainees from Victoria and seven from South Australian commenced No. 1 Recruit Course at Laverton. On the same day 27 recruits from NSW began No. 2 Course at Richmond. Other recruit courses followed in quick succession and training was also conducted at Point Cook and Pearce.

Courses were later confined to Richmond and Laverton. Training ceased at Richmond and Laverton in 1952 and 1953 respectively and under the new Command structure WRAAF Recruit Training was transferred to Point Cook. In 1965 the WRAAF Recruit Training Section became a squadron of 1 RTU at RAAF Edinburgh.

Courses for recruits were increased from 4½ weeks to 5 weeks in 1970.

Mustering.

Originally 21 musterings were open to WRAAF:

Group II	Group III	Group IV
Fabric Worker	Clerk Accounts	Steward
Education Assistant	Clerk General	Clerk
Tailor	Clerk Medical	Cooks Assistant (later deleted)
	Cook	Drill Instructor
	Driver Motor Transport	General Hand
	Equipment Assistant	Service Police
	Medical Orderly	Steward
	Teleprinter Operator	Stores Hand
	Telephone Operator
	Clerk Stores

1968 the pay-grouping system was again revised and 14 pay-groups were added to the existing seven. Some musterings were re-allotted to pay groups more appropriate to their skills and the mustering of book-binders was introduced.

Scootaville.

In June next year, 40 of us will ride 20 of the fantastic Peugeot 2-stroke 50cc motor scooters from Brisbane to the RAAF Base in Townsville. That trip will take us 13 days, we'll have two nights in Emerald, two nights in Longreach and two nights in Charters Towers. Peugeot have made the scooters available to us for the trip, we've made arrangements to pay for them after the event. So - you get to use them for free. You don't need a motor bike licence to ride these, a car licence is all you need.

Councils along the way have been more than generous and allowed us to use pavilions in their show-grounds to overnight, IGA and Woolworths have graciously agreed to provide us with food for breakfasts and in some cases lunches and Kedron Wavell RSL Sub-branch has agreed to provide a ute and small bus to carry our gear and also their "chuck wagon" on which we'll cook our breakfasts, some lunches and also refreshment stops along the way.

We'll have a lot of fun along the way and the RAAF at Townsville has agreed to greet us warmly. More on that later.

We've got a few starters already but there are still many spots available, so if you want to be a part of this great adventure, spend a few weeks with a bunch of like minded fun people, have the most fun you can have standing up, get your name in now.

Please let us know now. This is not binding but we need to know numbers.

Back in 1972, the small RAAF Base at Glenbrook, plus players from RAAF Kingswood depot, provided an outstanding RLFC team, under the Penrith Junior district umbrella, and coached by one of its members Bull Donald.

In 1972 this team beat a side from the powerful Windsor club to win the premiership. In 1973 playing correctly as the A Grade side, they were beaten by Blacktown Brothers in the grand final.

It's unusual for a service team to do well in a domestic competition as the demands of service life do not allow for a stable team, this club was wracked when more than half the team were received postings, if not for the intervention of a wing commander who had been following their progress manage to have those posted stay until the grand final.

After the 1973 final a number of their remaining talented players were posted to 3telu. The two coaches Bull Donald 1972, Brian Carol 1973, had Left their mark on the game with both having sons playing in the NRL.

Steve Anning playing for the Penrith side, won the prestigious Jack Harris Medal award as the best Player in the competition.

Tennis has the “fanatics”, the Poms the “Balmy army” and we had the WRAAFs. Whether it was ice-cold Katoomba, unfriendly Mt Druitt, or the green fields of Richmond they were there screaming themselves hoarse to prove that we were not only good on the field, but that we were well supported as well. The photograph below was taken at the presentation ball following the 1972 premiership. It will be a pleasure to see you

The RAAF Trunk.

Brendan Godwin says “I set myself a project this year that I have just completed. Restoring my Air Force trunk. One end was rusted to the point where there were some small holes in the bottom. I tried welding them but that made them bigger so I soldered them all closed. I sanded the thing back to bare metal. To my surprise, inside the lid I unearthed an inscription of the manufacturer, Duff Steel Industries. They were still operating in Sydney until 2000. The company was deregistered in 2000. When I tipped all the rust out of the bottom, I found a couple of relics in the powder.

these things have been in there since we were issued with our uniforms in 1967. I am afraid the rest of my khaki uniform is long gone. Correction. I just found a shirt that I had been using as a work shirt to fix motor vehicles. I might see if Vanish cleans it up.

The paint was not a perfect match. I took a photo into Bunnings but they wanted the trunk to scan the paint with their paint scanner. I wasn't dragging that in. The inside lid was still largely original paint. The outside front and one end was original paint but well faded. I can't be sure the inside lid did not change colour shades over the last 54 years so I really did not have an original colour to work from. I tried to match the inside lid colour with some of the paint cards they had and I came to what I thought was close. But it came out lighter after I painted it on and let it dry. I think it should be a tinge darker.

These trunks have a seal inside the lid. When you clamp them shut they are water proof. You can throw them in the ocean and they will float.

My father kept his WWII trunk until 2000, he threw it out in a house move.

Does anybody else still have their trunk?”

The 2021 reunion was held at the Paddo Tavern, in Given Terrace, Paddington. This was the first time the Paddo had been chosen and from all accounts was a popular choice as it was decided it would also host the 2022 reunion.
